Unyielding Enforcement of Zero Tolerance for Drunk Driving

As the festive season arrives, heightened by recent relaxations in COVID-19 precautions and increased social gatherings, the Changhua Branch, Administrative Enforcement Agency, Ministry of Justice (hereinafter “Changhua Branch”) emphasizes a strict zero-tolerance policy for drunk driving to prevent accidents from drunk driving incidents. Coming at a critical time when end-of-year parties and the Lunar New Year celebrations increase the risk of drunk driving incidents, this enforcement initiative, with the care for traffic safety and strict enforcement conducts, supervises drunk driving cases, urging the road users to cherish the loves of their own and others. Alcohol impairs visual acuity, reaction times, judgment, and coordination, significantly raising the likelihood of traffic accidents.

To combat the peril of drunk driving, the Changhua Branch has prioritized the management and forceful enforcement of penalties related to alcohol-impaired driving offenses. The Branch targets repeat offenders who evade fines for drunk driving or refuse breathalyzer tests, recognizing that such negligence poses significant risks to public safety and property. By deploying enforcement officers to conduct rigorous onsite operations and thoroughly investigating obligors' assets, the Branch employs a range of coercive measures including the seizure of bank accounts, wages, vehicles, real estate, imposing travel bans, and requesting detention to ensure fines are paid to urge the offenders perceive the severe consequences. The enforcement is performed with an expectation to enhance the civilian's legal awareness in terms of traffic rules and to prevent the occurrence of drunk driving, thereby ensuring the safety of the road users.

During this Lunar New Year period, the Changhua Branch advises the public to notice the penalties attracted by driving or riding under the influence due to alcohol consumption or having alcohol-containing dishes such as ginger duck, wine cooked chicken soup, or lamb hotpot. Drunk driving not only endangers lives and shatters families but has also become a public menace. The Branch encourages everyone to think twice before driving after drinking, reinforcing the message that "Do not drink and drive, do not drive after drinking" should be more than just a slogan. The Changhua Branch is committed to demonstrating the government's resolve to harshly penalize drunk driving through relentless enforcement. Offenders should not test the law, as those who maliciously default on payments will face stringent enforcement actions. The Branch will not relent in its efforts to safeguard the safety of all road users and property, striving to curb the dangerous trend of drunk driving and prevent tragic events from recurring.
